

ABSTRACT

A wireless communication system improves the speed at which geo-location searches can be done by strategically setting window sizes and offsets and by intelligently tracking earliest path timing.

10151124.doc